VEDRANTA BANK

Organization, Branches and Banking Channels Directory

Document ID: VDB-GEN-003

Category: Bank Profile

Version: 1.0 As of: 17 October 2026

Headquarters: Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu, India

FICTIONAL DOCUMENT FOR RAG DEVELOPMENT AND TESTING

This document describes a fictional bank created for a demonstration knowledge base. It is not evidence of a real institution, licence, financial product, employment offer, or binding policy. All bank-specific figures are synthetic unless explicitly identified as actual legal requirements.

Document Control and Master Facts

Field	Controlled value
Bank name	Vedranta Bank
Headquarters	Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu, India
Institution type	Fictional Indian commercial financial bank
Customer segments	retail customers, small and medium enterprises (SMEs), corporate clients, agricultural customers, rural customers, and eligible institutions
Owner	Office of Policy and Knowledge Management
Version / as-of	1.0 / 17 October 2026
Contact placeholders	1800-000-VED (fictional demonstration number; not a real helpline); support@vedranta.example (fictional reserved example domain)
Standard customer service hours	Monday–Friday, 9:30 a.m.–5:00 p.m.; Saturday, 9:30 a.m.–1:00 p.m.; Sundays and bank holidays closed, except digital self-service channels
Dataset status	Fictional; for RAG development and testing only

Source precedence

Applicable law and current regulatory directions prevail. Current approved product schedules, signed customer agreements, formal sanction letters, insurer plan documents, and approved HR terms govern their respective subjects. This general document summarizes rather than overrides them.

RAG instruction

Index content with document ID, section title, version, effective date, category, and access level. Treat all contacts and product figures in this synthetic corpus as fictional test values.

Contents and Retrieval Map

The following pages are organized as focused sections so retrieval can identify the most relevant passage. The section title should be stored as metadata for each extracted chunk.

01. Purpose of the directory
02. Head office
03. Reference branch
04. Branch network planning
05. Regional offices
06. Branch manager role
07. Customer service desk
08. Teller and cash operations
09. Relationship management
10. Loan operations team
11. Credit assessment team
12. Compliance function
13. Risk management function
14. Human resources
15. Information technology
16. Customer care channel
17. Support email
18. Grievance email
19. Standard service hours
20. Digital self-service
21. Internet banking access
22. Mobile banking access
23. ATM and card network
24. Payment-system dependencies
25. Emergency reporting
26. Complaint reference numbers
27. Branch referral
28. Accessibility arrangements
29. Holiday calendar
30. Staff directory privacy
31. Escalation hierarchy
32. Data quality controls
33. Stale directory handling
34. Example: nearest branch
35. Example: branch hours
36. Example: loan follow-up
37. Example: complaint escalation
38. Example: account restriction
39. Role and authority separation

40. Branch cash discrepancy
41. System outage communication
42. Directory update workflow
43. Channel consistency
44. RAG metadata recommendation
45. Frequently asked question: head office
46. Frequently asked question: branch count
47. Frequently asked question: contact
48. Directory review and disclaimer

When answering a question, retrieve the narrowest relevant section and check its context. Do not combine unrelated policy details merely because they occur in the same PDF.

Purpose of the directory

This directory defines a fictional organizational model and channel taxonomy. It does not represent actual branch premises or live contact details.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about purpose of the directory. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Purpose of the directory; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 01 | Version: 1.0

Head office

The head office is in Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu, India. Corporate policy, central operations, and governance coordination are represented as based there.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about head office. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Head office; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 02 | Version: 1.0

Reference branch

Reference branch code: COI-001 (fictional reference branch). This is a fictional test identifier, not a real banking location.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about reference branch. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Reference branch; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 03 | Version: 1.0

Branch network planning

The fictional planning assumption is 48 branches across selected Indian states (fictional planning figure). Exact branch names and street addresses should only be published after approved directory records are supplied.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about branch network planning. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Branch network planning; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 04 | Version: 1.0

Regional offices

Regional offices coordinate branch operations, service quality, staffing, and escalation. They do not override central policies or applicable law.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about regional offices. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Regional offices; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 05 | Version: 1.0

Branch manager role

The branch manager supervises daily service, staff conduct, cash controls, customer complaints, and escalation within delegated authority.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about branch manager role. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Branch manager role; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 06 | Version: 1.0

Customer service desk

The service desk receives enquiries, records requests, explains processes, and routes complex cases to the correct function.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about customer service desk. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Customer service desk; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 07 | Version: 1.0

Teller and cash operations

Teller staff follow dual controls, cash limits, reconciliation, identity checks, and exception reporting.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about teller and cash operations. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Teller and cash operations; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 08 | Version: 1.0

Relationship management

Relationship staff explain products, collect applications, and coordinate service but must not promise approval or bypass underwriting.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about relationship management. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Relationship management; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 09 | Version: 1.0

Loan operations team

Loan operations checks document completeness, coordinates verification, records decisions, and manages disbursement conditions.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about loan operations team. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Loan operations team; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 10 | Version: 1.0

Credit assessment team

Credit staff assess repayment capacity, credit history, obligations, and relevant product-specific risk factors.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about credit assessment team. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Credit assessment team; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 11 | Version: 1.0

Compliance function

Compliance interprets applicable obligations, advises on controls, and coordinates escalation of suspicious or non-compliant activity.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about compliance function. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Compliance function; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 12 | Version: 1.0

Risk management function

Risk management monitors material risks and reviews control design, exceptions, concentrations, and emerging issues.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about risk management function. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Risk management function; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 13 | Version: 1.0

Human resources

HR administers recruitment, benefits, leave, payroll coordination, employee records, and workplace support under internal policy.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about human resources. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Human resources; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 14 | Version: 1.0

Information technology

IT manages approved systems, access, change management, availability, security monitoring, and incident response.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about information technology. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Information technology; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 15 | Version: 1.0

Customer care channel

The fictional demonstration number is 1800-000-VED (fictional demonstration number; not a real helpline). It is not a real helpline and must be replaced before any deployment.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about customer care channel. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Customer care channel; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 16 | Version: 1.0

Support email

The fictional demonstration email is support@vedranta.example (fictional reserved example domain). The reserved .example domain is for documentation only.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about support email. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Support email; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 17 | Version: 1.0

Grievance email

The fictional demonstration grievance email is grievance@vedranta.example (fictional reserved example domain). Do not present it as a functioning contact address.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about grievance email. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Grievance email; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 18 | Version: 1.0

Standard service hours

Standard service hours: Monday–Friday, 9:30 a.m.–5:00 p.m.; Saturday, 9:30 a.m.–1:00 p.m.; Sundays and bank holidays closed, except digital self-service channels. Individual branches may require an approved local calendar in a live deployment.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about standard service hours. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Standard service hours; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 19 | Version: 1.0

Digital self-service

Digital channels may support statements, eligible transfers, card controls, and service requests. Each function requires supported authentication and account eligibility.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about digital self-service. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Digital self-service; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 20 | Version: 1.0

Internet banking access

Registration and access follow the digital banking manual. A chatbot cannot reset credentials or bypass identity verification on its own.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about internet banking access. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Internet banking access; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 21 | Version: 1.0

Mobile banking access

Customers should install applications only from verified official sources. No live app-store URL is provided in this fictional corpus.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about mobile banking access. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Mobile banking access; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 22 | Version: 1.0

ATM and card network

ATM access and card transactions depend on the card, account status, network availability, limits, and applicable fees.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about atm and card network. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: ATM and card network; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 23 | Version: 1.0

Payment-system dependencies

UPI, NEFT, RTGS, IMPS, and card services may depend on external networks and their operating rules. The bank must not claim control over every external delay.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about payment-system dependencies. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Payment-system dependencies; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 24 | Version: 1.0

Emergency reporting

Lost cards, suspected fraud, and compromised credentials should be reported through verified official emergency channels as soon as possible.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about emergency reporting. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Emergency reporting; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 25 | Version: 1.0

Complaint reference numbers

Each complaint should receive a traceable reference number. A public chatbot must not invent a real case status or reference number.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about complaint reference numbers. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Complaint reference numbers; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 26 | Version: 1.0

Branch referral

When a matter requires in-person verification, the chatbot should explain the reason, identify the approved branch or channel, and list required documents only from the current procedure.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about branch referral. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Branch referral; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 27 | Version: 1.0

Accessibility arrangements

Branches should communicate available accessibility support accurately. Do not promise a facility at a particular location unless the directory confirms it.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about accessibility arrangements. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Accessibility arrangements; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 28 | Version: 1.0

Holiday calendar

Branch holidays and exceptional closures require a maintained approved calendar. This document does not provide live holiday status.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about holiday calendar. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Holiday calendar; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 29 | Version: 1.0

Staff directory privacy

Employee personal phone numbers and private details must not be included in public retrieval. Use role-based official contact routes.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about staff directory privacy. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Staff directory privacy; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 30 | Version: 1.0

Escalation hierarchy

Routine queries go to service staff; transaction disputes go to payment operations; loan decisions go to loan operations or credit; complaints go to grievance handling; suspected fraud goes to security/fraud response.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about escalation hierarchy. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Escalation hierarchy; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 31 | Version: 1.0

Data quality controls

Every directory entry should include owner, verification date, effective date, and retirement date where applicable.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about data quality controls. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Data quality controls; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 32 | Version: 1.0

Stale directory handling

If a branch or contact entry is past its review date, the chatbot should avoid asserting it is current and should request confirmation through an approved source.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about stale directory handling. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Stale directory handling; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 33 | Version: 1.0

Example: nearest branch

A nearest-branch response requires customer location permission or a location supplied by the user and a current branch dataset. This static PDF alone cannot determine proximity.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about example: nearest branch. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Example: nearest branch; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 34 | Version: 1.0

Example: branch hours

Answer with standard hours only when no branch-specific record exists, and clearly state that local holiday or temporary changes may apply.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about example: branch hours. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Example: branch hours; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 35 | Version: 1.0

Example: loan follow-up

The chatbot may explain the general process but should not disclose an application status unless an authenticated case system authorizes it.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about example: loan follow-up. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Example: loan follow-up; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 36 | Version: 1.0

Example: complaint escalation

The assistant identifies the complaint type and explains the route. It should not send confidential details to an unverified email address.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about example: complaint escalation. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Example: complaint escalation; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 37 | Version: 1.0

Example: account restriction

A restriction may require verification or risk review. Staff must use approved systems and avoid revealing fraud-control signals that could compromise security.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about example: account restriction. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Example: account restriction; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 38 | Version: 1.0

Role and authority separation

Employees may provide guidance within their role but cannot approve exceptions outside their authority or disclose another team's restricted information.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about role and authority separation. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Role and authority separation; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 39 | Version: 1.0

Branch cash discrepancy

Cash discrepancies are recorded, reconciled, escalated, and independently reviewed. Staff must never adjust records informally to force a balance.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about branch cash discrepancy. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Branch cash discrepancy; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 40 | Version: 1.0

System outage communication

Service teams should share only approved incident updates, expected next update where known, and alternative safe channels.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about system outage communication. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: System outage communication; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 41 | Version: 1.0

Directory update workflow

The owner submits a change, an authorized reviewer verifies it, policy management versions the record, and downstream chatbot indexes are refreshed.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about directory update workflow. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Directory update workflow; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 42 | Version: 1.0

Channel consistency

The same service hours, product names, and escalation categories must be used in customer-facing and internal documents unless a documented scope difference applies.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about channel consistency. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Channel consistency; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 43 | Version: 1.0

RAG metadata recommendation

Tag each chunk with document ID, channel, department, access level, effective date, and review date to support filtering and freshness checks.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about rag metadata recommendation. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: RAG metadata recommendation; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 44 | Version: 1.0

Frequently asked question: head office

The fictional head office is Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu, India.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about frequently asked question: head office. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Frequently asked question: head office; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 45 | Version: 1.0

Frequently asked question: branch count

The current fictional planning assumption is 48 branches; it is not a verified real-world count.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about frequently asked question: branch count. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Frequently asked question: branch count; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 46 | Version: 1.0

Frequently asked question: contact

All contact details in this document are placeholders and must be replaced with verified details for any real deployment.

Operational guidance

For this topic, staff or the chatbot should first identify the customer's or employee's actual question, confirm the relevant product or policy scope, and consult the current approved source. The document is a general guide and should not be used to infer missing eligibility, rates, dates, approvals, or account-specific facts.

Recommended handling steps

1. Identify the request type and the information needed to answer it.
2. Check the current policy version, effective date, and relevant customer or employee category.
3. Explain the process in plain language and distinguish general guidance from a decision on an individual case.
4. If verification or an authorized system is required, direct the user to that approved route.
5. Record or cite the relevant source and escalate ambiguity rather than inventing an answer.

Examples and exception handling

Example: a user asks about frequently asked question: contact. The assistant provides the relevant general rule, explains any condition or exception in the source, and avoids asserting a personalized outcome without authorized evidence. If the source is silent or conflicting, the assistant states that the information requires confirmation and routes the query to the responsible team.

RAG retrieval anchors

Search terms: Frequently asked question: contact; Vedranta Bank; VDB-GEN-003; Bank Profile; process; eligibility; required documents; approval; exception; escalation; effective date.

Consistency and control note

Use the bank-wide master profile for institutional facts. For rates, fees, leave entitlements, insurance limits, contact placeholders, and service hours, use the centrally agreed figures and the relevant specialized document. A newer approved source or applicable law takes precedence over a general explanatory section.

Document reference: VDB-GEN-003 | Section: 47 | Version: 1.0